QRX Technology Group Partners with Diligen to Bring Artificial Intelligence to Document Review

TORONTO, Oct. 01, 2018 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- QRX Technology Group, a national provider of print management and data storage solutions, has partnered with Diligen, a leading artificial intelligence (AI)-based contract assistant, to bring the power of machine learning to help its customers innovate their document management and document workflow processes.

Using Diligen, customers of QRX, which include more than half of the law firms in Canada, will be able to automate and speed up the manual and tedious process of analyzing documents while maintaining high standards of accuracy and quality.

According to David Vyse, QRX's Director of Document Workflow Solutions, "The AI system available through our partnership with Diligen will serve key customer needs now and into the future. Our customers can easily leverage machine learning capabilities to enhance a legacy solution within their current infrastructure and quickly realize the benefits of AI to make the data within their contracts more useable. Using this system, customers can rapidly identify and extract key information in hundreds or thousands of documents."

"QRX has been in the document business for more than 30 years and is prioritizing its services and solutions around the areas of document security, document management, document workflow, and automation. The partnership is a natural extension of the Diligen product, helping legal customers gain better insights into their documents," said Laura van Wyngaarden, Co-Founder and COO of Diligen.

From small legal teams to the largest law firms in the world, Diligen is a contract assistant powered by AI that provides high quality contract review, helping to cut review time in half by automatically identifying key provisions, generating summaries and helping teams manage the contract review process.

About Diligen

For law firms and legal teams, Diligen reduces the burden of painstaking contract review and allows lawyers to focus time on work that requires judgement. Diligen helps firms show their clients that they are trimming the fat on monthly billable hours by reducing time spent on due diligence and contract review. Diligen allows law firms needing to manage costs on fixed rate projects to focus on adding value to clients without writing off thousands of hours on contract review. Diligen augments manual contract review processes for faster, higher accuracy results. Diligen allows small legal teams to tackle the increased volume of contract review without adding additional resources or requiring current resources to work around the clock. Diligen enables junior associates to focus on higher billable tasks without compromising the speed or quality of critical contract review work.
